Tell them you will work to get them primaried if they don't get their slacker tails in gear and act like they are the conservatives they were elected to be....in the nicest way possible...of course. The average politician only fully comprehends two things, the loss of campaign money and/or the loss of power. Make that three things, the average politician is terrified of the corporate media picking on them. That makes them lift their skirts and run to the Hills.
